

Confined Space Awareness Training

Course Overview:

When there is a confined space in the workplace, all workers in that workplace require Confined Space Awareness training as well as workplace specific training.

This online course identifies the characteristics of a confined space, describes the risks associated with working in a confined space and the prescribed methods for controlling those risks, and explains the documentation requirements pertaining to confined space work.

Who Should Take the Course?

This course should be provided to all workers in a workplace that contains a confined space. It meets the requirement for Awareness Level training.

Note: Successful completion of Confined Space Awareness Training DOES NOT reduce or negate the need for workplace specific training, as provided by the employer.

Evaluation Process:

At the end of each module, there is a test. Participants must successfully complete the test before continuing to the next module. Participants that do not achieve 100% can review the contents of that module and can re-take the test as many times as necessary to confirm knowledge transfer and complete the course. Test questions are randomly selected from a test bank, making the composition of each test unique.

Upon successful completion of all three modules, there is a Certificate of Completion which can be downloaded/printed for inclusion in personal and workplace records.

Course Duration:

This online course is self-paced. Participants can exit the course whenever they like and can return at any time, resuming their training where they left off. The time required to complete the course will depend on the individual learning and their prior knowledge of the subject matter. On average, the course will take 2 – 3 hours to complete.
